References Category:Wireless locating Category:Rogue wireless Category:Wi-FiQ: Connecting to MongoDB Atlas with Node.js - connection error I'm trying to connect to the MongoDB Atlas service with Node.js. I have the latest npm, node, mongodb, and mongo-cxx-driver installed. However, when I try to connect I get the error "Error: failed to connect to db server.". Here's the code I'm using to connect:

var MongoClient = require('mongodb').MongoClient; var url = "mongodb+srv://my-mongo-atlas-id:xxxxx@ds02709.mongodb.net/collection-name?retryWrites=true&w=majority"; MongoClient.connect(url, function(err, db) { if (err) { console.log("Error: " + err); } db.close(); });

 I have tried using different host names and port numbers for the url, but the error always seems to come back "Error: failed to connect to db server.". What am I doing wrong here? I'm sure it's something simple, but I've spent hours trying to figure it out and I'm at a complete loss. A: The problem was with how the URI was constructed. I wasn't specifying the user or database name. Once I did that, the connection worked. Thank you to '@Michael' for pointing this out to me.
